Nolan Martinous

Software Developer

61 Bay State Road, Rehoboth, MA, 02769 / +1 (774) 218-1530 / nmartinousdev@gmail.com

---

Professional summary

Recent computer science graduate ready to apply theoretical knowledge and keen problem-solving skills in a dynamic team environment. Demonstrates a strong foundation in programming principles and a commitment to developing high-quality software solutions. Eager to engage with innovative projects and contribute to the success of a forward-thinking company while developing new skills.

Employment history

JAN 2024 – MAR 2024
REMOTE

Independent Contractor – AI Trainer, DataAnnotation

- Analyzed language model outputs to improve the efficacy of end-user interactions with AI
- Focused on improving the accuracy of code generated by various models, particularly results written in Python.

JUN 2023 – SEP 2023
PROVIDENCE, RI

Technology Counselor, ATEL

- Guided individuals to enable computer literacy and independence
- Worked with communities to foster long-term technical learning

---

Professional Projects

OCT 2023 – MAY 2024
SENIOR CAPSTONE PROJECT

Using Local LLMs to Support Software Development and Testing, Guided by Rite-Solutions, Middletown, RI

- Participated in an industry-standard work environment for a year-long project
- Researched cutting edge technology in the form of code generative AI using Large Language Models
- Designed, polished, and deployed a WebUI to facilitate further research and apply findings

---

Education

SEP 2021 – MAY 2024
DARTMOUTH, MA

Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science, UMass Dartmouth

SEP 2019 – DEC 2020
AMHERST, MA

UMass Amherst

Completed courses in computer engineering and computer science

JAN 2021 – MAY 2021
FALL RIVER, MA

Bristol Community College

Completed courses in computer science

Skills

Python (Experienced)

HTML & CSS (Experienced)

Java (Skillful)

C# (Beginner)